

Future Prediction

The forecast suggests a positive outlook for Canada's immigration numbers, with a steady increase in permanent residents expected over the next five years. This growth will likely contribute to Canada’s economic and demographic development, provided that favorable conditions continue.

Permanent Resident by Year

